1.0 Executive Summary

This report is a summary of the City of Laredo, TX's pavement condition assessment performed from February to April of 2019; and provides pavement condition data and maintenance recommendations for the city's maintained roadway network. The report provides the information pertaining to the methodology used to perform the pavement condition survey and analysis, outlines the pavement maintenance and preservation methods that can be used by the city for the roadway network, and details funding guidelines and recommendations for pavement maintenance and preservation activities.

PAVER™ Pavement Management Software was used to calculate a pavement condition index (PCI), analyze funding, compare maintenance and preservation activities, and for the development of various 3-year pavement maintenance and preservation programs for the city's consideration.

In order to develop a five-year long-term pavement maintenance and preservation program with corresponding budgets, the City of Laredo requested scenarios with pavement budgets of $2.5 Million, $3 Million, and $4 Million, allocating 30% of the budget funds to preservation, to perform maintenance to the asphalt roads of the network and the remainder for rehabilitation. Based on the pavement maintenance and preservation methods outlined in Section 7 of this report, the City will see a decline on their overall condition if they maintain their current budget, or even with an increase up to $3M and $4M for road maintenance.

DTS recommends the City of Laredo invest additional funds to their annual maintenance budget to increase the amount to at least $3M to generally follow the optimized maintenance plans presented in this report in Section 7, with modeled results as presented in Figures 6 and 7 below. A list of road sections, with associated treatment types, for this $3M scenario are listed by year in the Appendix. The chart below and following table provide a summary of the recommended scenario with the increased budget of $3 Million.

Figure 6: 5-Year $3 Million Budget Scenario - PCI Plot

5-Year $3 Million Budget Scenario
Year	Avg. PCI	Budget Required
2020	70.25	$2,999,728.02
2021	67.78	$2,999,860.19
2022	65.44	$2,999,819.26
2023	63.19	$2,999,732.47
2024	61.02	$2,999,496.04

Figure 7: 5-Year $3 Million Budget Scenario - Budget Information

The average PCI of the asphalt sections of the network would decrease from an approximate 70.25 after maintenance in 2020 to an approximate 61.02 in 2024 if the city utilized a budget of $3 million for road preservation, rehabilitation and reconstruction. In this scenario, the distribution of cost is controlled by the 30% preservation and 70% rehabilitation and reconstruction breakdown. The advantages of this scenario are that more streets can receive treatment, about 19 miles every year, than the existing budget, and the good to fair condition roads will be improved and maintained in this level. The negative to this approach is that very few of the very poor to serious condition roads will be treated. This approach may require special funding to address the poorest roads. This and other budget scenarios can be found in Section 7.

2.0 Introduction

Data Transfer Solutions, LLC (DTS) performed a pavement condition survey from March to April of 2019 on 1,542.76 lane miles of the city's roadways. DTS used a mobile asset collection (MAC) vehicle to collect street level right-of-way images and pavement images. The collected pavement images were used to determine street segment pavement conditions while the street level right-of-way images were used to identify area distresses.

Roadway networks are usually divided into three pavement surface types: asphalt (AC), concrete (PCC), and unpaved (UNP). Due to the nature and scope of the project, pavement imagery and data were only collected on asphalt and concrete roads. These types of roads account for the entirety of the collected roadway network, with approximately 772.88 centerline miles (98.81%) of surveyed roadway.

The project pavement condition survey employed a set of pre-defined parameters to develop a segment and network level index (number) that correlates to existing pavement surface conditions. This project used the ASTM D6433 'Standard Practice for Roads and Parking Lots Pavement Condition Index Surveys' pavement condition analysis method to determine the road segment and network pavement condition index (PCI). The ASTM D6433 method covers the process of quantifying pavement conditions and identifies pavement distress types, distress extent measurements, and distress severity. ASTM D6433 outlines the method of PCI value calculation.

This pavement condition survey PCI becomes the basis for management, maintenance, project, and budget decisions for the City of Laredo. Using the PCI value as the basis for pavement related decisions will allow the city to build a quantifiable, repeatable process for planning annual pavement maintenance or preservation project funding.

This project used PAVER™ Pavement Management Software for calculating the PCI value, analyzing the network PCI ranges, setting maintenance procedures and associated costs, developing budgets, and planning projects to meet the city's pavement maintenance requirements.

3.0 Purpose

The purpose of this document is to describe the tools, processes and procedures used to collect and analyze the pavement condition data as well as provide a summary of the results obtained from calculating each segment's PCI using PAVER™ Pavement Management Software.

4.0 Project Scope & Methodology

The overall project scope of work contains five tasks outlined below:

- Verify City Street Network
- Mobile Image Data Collection

- Pavement Condition Index
- Pavement Final Report and Analysis
- Budget Scenarios

5.0 Automated Data Collection and Equipment

In order to determine the general distress characteristics of each roadway segment, DTS utilized one of our Mobile Asset Collection (MAC) vehicles to collect street-level right-of-way imagery and downward pavement imagery. The automated distress data collection was performed in general accordance with ASTM D6433 (Standard Practice for Roads and Parking Lots Pavement Condition Index Surveys) and ASTM Standard E1656 (Standard Guide for Classification of Automated Pavement Condition Survey Equipment), utilizing a Class 1 device as defined by the specifications.

DTS MAC vehicles combine multiple engineered technologies to collect real-time pavement data, right-of-way data and images at posted speed limits. This effectively eliminates the need to place pavement inspection technicians in the field in close proximity to vehicle traffic. Some MAC vehicle components include:

Navigation System

- IMU: Inertial Measurement Unit generates a true representation of vehicle motion in all three axes; producing continuous, accurate position and orientation information
- PCS: POS Computer System enables raw GPS data from as few as one satellite to be processed directly into the system, to compute accurate positional information in areas of intermittent, or no GPS reception
- GPS Receivers: Embedded GPS receivers provide heading aiding to supplement the inertial data
- GPS Antennas: Two GPS antennas generate raw observables data
- Sub-meter accuracy: The system is rated to get 0.3 m accuracy in the X,Y position and 0.5 m in the Z position

Distance Measuring Indicator (DMI)

- Allows for collection of high resolution imagery at posted speeds. Distance Measurement Indicator computes wheel rotation information to aid vehicle positioning.

Cameras

- High-definition cameras with precision lenses allow for accurate asset extraction and videolog recording
- Frame rate: 15 images per second, with 1936x1456 color resolution

Pavement Imaging System

- Two line-scan cameras and lasers configured to image 4m transverse road sections with 1 mm resolution (4000 pixel) at speeds that can reach 100 km/h
- Allows fully illuminated pavement image collection even in heavy shadow/canopy areas

Downward-facing pavement imagery was collected to be used in quantifying distress type, severity and extents present on segments of road. The resolution of the imagery allowed for distresses to be easily identified and measured during the analysis portion of the contract.

Mobile image collection of the city's roadway network was accomplished through coordination with city's staff. Efforts associated with the mobile image collection included review of client GIS street centerline file, route planning based on GIS street centerline, and coordination of existing construction projects along the city's streets. All MAC image collection routes were reviewed by both DTS and the city's staff to assure all of the city's streets attained complete image coverage. This effort was accomplished by reviewing a GIS shapefile of the MAC daily GPS point associated to each image collected overlaid on the city's GIS street centerline file.

DTS MAC image collection included a daily check of the on-board systems. This vehicle component check consisted of a calibration site survey of a nine-point grid in state plane coordinates. Each morning and afternoon, before and after a day’s image collection, the MAC vehicle drove over the surveyed location. The MAC technician then extracted each point’s location to verify the location of the point extracted was within approximately 3 feet of the surveyed points. DTS’ QA/QC manual includes further details regarding MAC quality control procedures.

The DTS MAC vehicle collected pavement and right-of-way images every 25 feet along each street segment.

Each day's image and road data collection were recorded on a MAC server. Each night, the day's collection data was backed up to an external hard drive. The external hard drives were then mailed back to DTS' project office where the data was placed on a production server for post-processing of images and data, quality control review, and pavement distress inventory.

Right-of-way (ROW) images were also collected as part of this contract. The MAC vehicle was configured with a four-camera setup for this; three forward-facing cameras and one rear-facing camera. The images were captured at roughly 25-foot intervals and were post-processed using collected inertial and GPS data. This allowed for more accurate asset extraction to be completed.

The automated data collection effort for the City of Laredo roadway network began in February and was completed in April of 2019.

6.0 Pavement Condition Assessment

DTS post-processes the MAC GPS, IMU, DMI, and Right-of-Way (ROW) imagery for each day of image collection. With a completed day of images and data, DTS pavement engineers and GIS analysts prepared a project data dictionary that includes all distress types and allowable severities. This data library is provided to trained pavement condition technicians along with the images and associated data for a day's image collection.

DTS utilized our spatial image analysis software EarthShaper™ to analyze and digitize pavement distress types, extents and severities as a point, linear and/or polygon. Depending on the distress type measurement required by the project data dictionary, each pavement image's distress data was digitized and recorded to a database and associated to the street section being surveyed. Each distress type, severity and extent is recorded to the project pavement condition database; and each street section's total type, severity and extent is calculated.

This method of pavement distress inventory provides a quantifiable and repeatable process to the city. Each street segment, in conjunction with the pavement and right-of-way imagery, allows pavement engineers to review each pavement technician's data, allowing for an open quality control process that is defensible and repeatable. This distress data was then imported into PAVER™ Pavement Management Software, where the PCI was calculated. The distribution of the roadway network by surface type can be observed below.

6.1 Pavement Distress Inventory

A pavement distress inventory consists of identifying specific pavement surface distress types that are associated with the degradation of a pavement surface due to traffic loads, environmental factors, lack of maintenance and other man-made or natural occurrences. The distress type is then assigned a severity rating (low/medium/high), and the extents of the distress type and severity are recorded. For this project, the pavement distress types, severity definitions and measurements were inventoried utilizing the ASTM D6433 method of pavement condition assessment for both asphalt concrete surface (AC) and Portland cement concrete (PCC) pavements. The inspections covered 100% of the length of a sample for the outside lane of travel and for roads with three or more lanes the inspection covered the outside and the inside lane. Those roads were inspected utilizing the ASTM D6433 sampling approach (completed for both directions of travel).

Definitions (units of measure)

- AC Bleeding & Pumping (ft²) represents excessive use of bituminous binder in the asphalt mix.

- AC Fatigue (Alligator) Cracking (ft²) is associated with fatigue due to traffic loading and visually looks as interconnected cracks forming small pieces ranging in size from about 1" to 6" typically in the wheel path.
- AC Block Cracking (ft²) usually intersect at nearly right angles and range from one foot to 10' or more across. The closer spacing indicates more advanced aging caused by shrinking and hardening of the asphalt over time.
- AC Edge Cracking (ft) is parallel to and usually within 1.5 feet of the outer edge of the pavement. This distress is accelerated by traffic loading and can be caused by frost-weakened base or subgrade near the edge of the pavement.
- AC/PCC Lane/Shoulder Drop-off (ft) is a difference in elevation between the pavement edge and the shoulder. This distress is caused by shoulder erosion, shoulder settlement, or by building up the roadway without adjusting the shoulder level.
- AC Linear Cracking (trans/long) (ft) typically occurs in overlays where the crack is reflected through the overlaying asphalt surface.
- AC Patching (ft²) is an area of pavement that has been replaced with new material to repair existing pavement.
- AC Potholes (count) are small, usually less than 30 inches in diameter, bowl-shaped depressions in the pavement surface. Generally, they have sharp edges and vertical sides near the top of the hole.
- AC Raveling & Weathering (ft²) is loss of pavement material from the asphalt surface. Typically raveling is caused by stripping of the bituminous film from the aggregate or hardening of asphalt due to aging. Poor compaction, especially in cold weather construction, or insufficient asphalt content are also causes of raveling.
- AC Slippage Cracking (ft²) are crescent or half-moon shaped cracks, usually transverse to the direction of travel. They are produced when braking or turning wheels cause the pavement to slide or deform.
- AC Rutting (ft²) is a surface depression in the wheel paths.
- PCC Corner Break (slab count) is a crack that intersects the joints. Load repetition combined with loss of support and curling stresses usually cause corner breaks.
- PCC Divided Slab (slab count) is when a slab is divided into four or more pieces due to overloading, or inadequate support.
- PCC Durability "D" Cracking (slab count) is caused by freeze-thaw expansion of the large aggregate, which gradually breaks down the concrete. Usually appears as a pattern of cracks running parallel and close to a joint or linear crack.
- PCC Joint Sealant Damage (slab count) is any condition that enables soil or rocks to accumulate in the joints or allows significant water infiltration.
- PCC Linear Cracking (trans/long) (slab count) divide the slab in two or three pieces and are usually caused by a combination of repeated traffic loading, thermal gradient curling and repeated moisture loading.
- PCC Patching, Large/Utility Cut (slab count) is an area where the original pavement has been removed and replaced by new pavement.
- PCC Patching, Small (slab count) is an area where the original pavement has been removed and replaced by filler material.
- PCC Polished Aggregate (slab count) is caused by repeated traffic applications. There are no rough or angular aggregate particles to provide good skid resistance.
- PCC Popouts (slab count) is a small piece of pavement that breaks loose from the surface due to freeze-thaw action, combined with expansive aggregates. Usually range in diameter from 1 to 4 inches and in depth from ½ to 2 inches.

- PCC Punchout (slab count) is a localized area of the slab that is broken into pieces. This distress is caused by heavy repeated loads, inadequate slab thickness, loss of foundation support or localized concrete construction deficiency.
- PCC Scaling/Map Cracking/Crazing (slab count) is a network of shallow, fine or hairline cracks that extend only through the upper surface of the concrete. Usually caused by concrete over-finishing and may lead to scaling, which is the breakdown of the slab surface to a depth of ¼ to ½ in.
- PCC Shrinkage Cracks (slab count) are hairline cracks usually less than 6 feet long and do not extend across entire slab. They are formed during the setting and curing of the concrete and do not extend through the depth of the slab.
- PCC Spalling, Corner (slab count) is the breakdown of the slab within 1.5 feet of the corner. Usually caused by traffic loading or infiltration of incompressible materials, weak concrete and/or water accumulation and freeze-thaw action.
- PCC Spalling, Joint (slab count) is the breakdown of the slab edges within 1.5 feet of the joint. Usually caused by traffic loading or infiltration of incompressible materials, weak concrete and/or water accumulation and freeze-thaw action.

6.2 Pavement Condition Index (PCI) Calculation

Each street segment's pavement condition index (PCI) was calculated utilizing PAVER™ Pavement Management Software (AMS), which is based on the ASTM D6433 method of calculating a street segment's pavement condition index value using the pavement inventory database and ASTM D6433 deduct curves for each distress.

With a completed pavement condition inventory database, DTS imported the street segment, inspection, sample and distress information into the AMS, where the PCI was calculated. ASTM D6433 is based on a 0 to 100 rating scale where 0 represents a failed roadway condition and 100 represent an excellent roadway condition.

7.0 Pavement Maintenance/Preservation Methods

The specific activity to perform on each road depends upon the pavement distresses observed. The following pavement maintenance and preservation methods are currently performed on the City of Laredo's roadways.

Microsurface

Microsurfacing is a surface treatment very similar to slurry seal. However, it is typically a more durable treatment that is used for higher volume roadways. Microsurfacing typically uses a polymer-modified asphalt emulsion, which gives it more flexibility than a conventional asphalt binder. Microsurfacing is primarily used to mitigate raveling and oxidation of asphalt pavement surfaces and also improves friction and appearance of both asphalt and concrete surfaces. Microsurfacing can be designed with larger aggregate for use in filling shallow to moderate depth ruts in asphalt pavement and can also seal low-severity cracks.

Cape Seal

A Cape Seal is a chip seal covered with a slurry or micro-surface. The benefits from using a cape seal include a very smooth surface with an increased durability by sealing the subbase. Often the use of a chip seal is not popular with the public because of the rougher ride and loose stones. With the addition of the top treatment, a slurry seal or micro-surfacing, the road ends up with a smooth surface that binds any loose aggregate, reducing stone loss.

Milling and Overlay

Milling of the road's surface is required to remove distresses that extend into the pavement. Asphalt overlay is a plant-mixed combination of asphalt cement and aggregate applied to the pavement in thicknesses usually between 1.5 to 2 inches for thick overlay and 0.625 inches to 1.125 inches for thin overlay. This type of rehabilitation will address alligator cracking, longitudinal/transverse cracking, raveling/weathering, friction loss, roughness, bleeding, block cracking and rutting.

Full-Depth Reconstruction

Full-depth reconstruction consists of the complete removal of an existing asphaltic or concrete pavement, base re-work and new pavement structure construction. Typically, this method of pavement rehabilitation is used on excessively deteriorated roads with high severity distresses for a majority of the roadway extents. Additional analysis is typically required for a full-depth rehabilitation including full-depth pavement coring, traffic loading analysis and storm water drainage analysis.

7.1 Pavement Maintenance/Preservation Funding

DTS performed various three-year pavement maintenance and preservation program scenarios for the City's consideration using the PAVER Asset Management Software. The City's current total budget includes:

- An annual budget of $2.5 Million.

The scenarios preformed for the City include:

1. 5-Year Baseline Scenario: no budget was allocated to see how the network will deteriorate over 5 years with no work performed
2. 5-Year $2.5 Million Budget Scenario: using an annual budget of $2.5 million for five years, and allocating 30% to preservation to perform maintenance to the asphalt roads of the network
3. 5-Year $3 Million Budget Scenario: using an annual budget of $3 million for five years, and allocating 30% to preservation to perform maintenance to the asphalt roads of the network.
4. 5-Year $4 Million Budget Scenario: using an annual budget of $4 million for five years, and allocating 30% to preservation to perform maintenance to the asphalt roads of the network.

As part of this project, an inventory of the City’s current activities, budgets, conditions and decision matrices was compiled and reviewed. The City of Laredo provided a list of current treatments types used within their preservation, rehabilitation and reconstruction work. Included in this list was the cost of each of these treatment types per square yard. These treatment activities and costs were entered into PAVER within the Manage Jobs section.

Treatment Type	Activity	Cost Per SQ FT
Preservation	Cape Seals ($\Delta T = 4$ Years)	\$0.22
Preservation	Micro Surface Seal ($\Delta T = 9$ Years)	\$0.44
Rehabilitation	Mill and Overlay	$2.67
Minor Reconstruction	C & G Replacement/Partial Reconstruction	$5.56
Reconstruction	Full Reconstruction	$8.44

A pavement deterioration curve was developed within PAVER based on DTS’ geotechnical and PAVER engineers’ expertise in pavement networks with similar characteristics, such as traffic, soil, weather, etc. Every road segment’s PCI value is anticipated to deteriorate according to this curve until pavement maintenance work is performed.

Using information collected from the City, our experience with other pavement management systems and industry standards, DTS assigned the impacts below to each treatment type within the M&R Family Models – M&R Tables and Families section of PAVER.

Treatment Type	Activity	Impact	PCI Range
Preservation	Cape Seals ($\Delta T= 4$ Years)	10 Points	80-90
Preservation	Micro Surface Seal ($\Delta T= 9$ Years)	15 Points	70-79
Rehabilitation	Mill and Overlay	90 Fixed	50-69
Minor Reconstruction	C & G Replacement/Partial Reconstruction	95 Fixed	30-49
Reconstruction	Full Reconstruction	100 Fixed	0-29

7.2 5-Year Baseline Scenario

At the time of inspection in August of 2019, the average PCI for the city’s network asphalt sections was 70.01 (this value shows a slight deterioration in our model from the time they were collected in the field due to the selected deterioration curve). If no work is performed over the next five years, these PCI ratings would be expected to decrease to 59.03.

7.3 5-Year $2.5 Million Budget Scenario.

An annual budget of $2.5 million for road preservation (30%), rehabilitation and reconstruction was applied to the asphalt sections of the network in PAVER’s M&R Tables and Families section.

Figure 35: 5-Year $2.5 Million Budget Scenario - Distribution of Cost

Figure 36: 5-Year $2.5 Million Budget Scenario – Miles per Activity

Synopsis:

The average PCI of the asphalt sections of the network would decrease from an approximate 70.19 after maintenance in 2020 to an approximate 60.55 in 2024 if the City utilized a budget of $2.5 million for road preservation, rehabilitation and reconstruction. In this scenario, the distribution of cost is controlled by the 30% preservation, 70% rehabilitation and reconstruction breakdown. The advantages of this scenario are that more streets can receive treatment, about 16 miles every year, and the good to fair condition roads will be improved and maintained in this level. The negative to this approach is that very few of the very poor to serious condition roads will be treated.

7.4 5-Year $3 Million Budget Scenario

This budget scenario was set up to use an annual budget of $3 million, for road preservation (30%), rehabilitation and reconstruction for five years by targeting the asphalt sections of the network.
